HISTORY

A privately held company, Midmark has been able to reinvent itself over and over for more than 100 years. Formerly The Cummings Machine Company, Midmark was founded in 1915, manufacturing cement mixers, then mining locomotives, foundry equipment and custom metal fabrications. Since moving into the healthcare market in the 1960s, we have not only built quality and market-leading products that meet customers' needs for more efficient and effective patient care, but have maintained customer relationships built on integrity and trust.

Midmark is focused on helping physicians and care teams deliver the best patient care with better equipment, smarter workflows and integrated technology. For the medical market, we provide a unique offering of clinical workflow solutions, encompassing clinical workflow services, RTLS technology, medical equipment, diagnostic devices and design assistance, resulting in improved efficiency within health systems.

We emerged into the dental and veterinary markets over the last two decades and continue to grow and incorporate new products into our current lines. We use our deep knowledge of the dental care space to help our customers design the space that meets their needs, and provide products that deliver optimal patient care and create a seamless, efficient workflow. Within the veterinary market, we offer solutions that serve the full care continuum of veterinary healthcare—from containment to preventive and procedural care, allowing customers a single source for high quality and innovative equipment, technology, clinical training and services.

Beyond our dedication to enriching the point of care experience in the markets we serve, we are passionate leaders, elevating the game and delivering winning solutions to meet customer needs. We are agile, anticipating the future, reflecting and taking action.

As we continue to grow, our commitment to our aspirational vision of anticipating, creating and leading the best healthcare experience for all is unchanged. Simply put, we share a passion for helping others.
